

WHY OUR LIFE PROTECTION TERMINAL ILLNESS DEFINITION IS BETTER

PETE DOESN'T KNOW HOW MUCH LONGER HE HAS TO LIVE OR WHEN HIS LIFE COVER WILL PAY OUT

Pete has incurable stage 4 cancer and simply wants to be free of financial worries so he can spend his remaining time creating memories with his family.

But Pete's life insurance policy won't pay out until he can prove he has less than 12 months to live, and his doctors are reluctant to make that prediction.

So instead of living, Pete's waiting, worried about the uncertain future he and his family are facing.

THAT'S WHY, AT GUARDIAN, WE DO THINGS DIFFERENTLY

With our Life Protection, we don't need to see evidence that a customer has less than 12 months to live before we pay out. Also, we pay out if you're diagnosed with incurable stage 4 cancer, regardless of how long you may have to live.

And we do the same if you're diagnosed with motor neurone disease, Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease or Parkinson-plus syndromes by a UK Consultant.

To find out more, speak to a Financial Adviser for full details of our policy terms and conditions.
